Rescue drama after steelwork collapses at building site

I'M OK

A BUILDING worker – covered in blood but still able to walk after the collapse of decking at a building site in Belfast yesterday – uses his mobile phone to let loved ones know that he's alive and OK. Six other men were not so fortunate and are in hospital in a stable condition after they fell 30ft when steelwork gave way as concrete was being poured at the site.

Reports, reaction and more pictures on pages 4 and 5
